How to Use This Cheatsheet

Three ways to read, one consistent voice

What you are holding

This is a working reference for reading tarot in a bold, direct, protective voice. Every line is built from a real reader's language, not generic textbook keywords, so the cards sound like a person talking, not a dictionary.

1. Their Secret Thoughts

The headline sheet. Pull a card to ask what someone is secretly thinking or feeling about you. Each card gives the live thought, then the deeper drive underneath it. Best for love, reconciliation, and no-contact questions.

2. Card Meanings plus Clarifier and Combo

The reference sheet. Each card carries its core meaning in two lines, then a third line for what it adds as a clarifier or when it lands next to another card. Use this to read spreads, not just singles.

3. One-Page Quick Reference

The printable cheat strip. All 78 cards, one tight line each, for the reading table or the phone. Print it, laminate it, keep it close.

How to print

Everything is US Letter. Print the full bundle, or just the sheet you need. The quick reference is designed to fit a single page. For ink saving, print the quick reference only.

Tip: the same card can speak softly in one position and sharp in another. Read the card with the question, not in a vacuum.

Their Secret Thoughts

The live thought, then what is driving it underneath

CUPS

Ace of Cups

new offering, healing, test, gift

- Look, this person is sitting there thinking about offering you something brand new, a fresh start, a gift. They want to open that door with you but they're scared you might reject it. The truth is, they see you as the blessing that showed up right after the worst thing happened to them, like imagine trying to burn somebody's house down and then they go buy something even nicer.
- Underneath all that, they're testing you. They want to see if you'll open the door before they put their whole heart on the table. They know you're the healing they need, they just ain't ready to admit it out loud yet.

Two of Cups

options, karma, mutual connection, truth

- Listen, this person is thinking about you and they realize a little too late that you got options. Like, so many options it might even overwhelm you. They had this false sense of superiority thinking you would just sit there and wait, and now they see the truth coming out.
- What's really driving this is they can feel the karma already hitting. They tried to sell you a fantasy, but you stopped falling for fantasy and started falling for facts, period. That logical energy you carry now terrifies them.

Three of Cups

reconciliation, scared, third party, mending

- This person is secretly thinking about reconciling with you, wanting to mend something, wanting to heal what got broken. But they're scared, like genuinely scared, because of everything they pulled in a past cycle. They think you're going to be defensive and won't even hear them out, and honestly that fear is eating them alive.
- The deeper layer is there are too many people involved in this connection, influencing it, stirring the pot. A third party energy has been all up in your business, and this person knows that's part of why things fell apart. They're thinking about whether they can even get to you without the noise.

Four of Cups

rejection, stuck, unbothered, soul tribe

- People are noticing that you ain't afraid of rejection. This person is sitting there thinking, what am I going to do, reject them? And you're like, oh no, now I got to spend time in my own energy, how terrible. They can't rattle you and it's messing with their head.
- What's really going on is they're stuck in their ways, acting like they're content when they're not. They want to act like they don't see the blessing being handed to them, but that frustration of not being able to move you is the thing keeping them up at night.

Five of Cups

sadness, trapped, light-stealing, grief

- The truth is, this person is thinking about how to trap you in sadness. They want to take your light away, take your shine, take away your choices so you feel like you got no option but to give up. They want you backed into a corner feeling like there's no way out.
- Underneath that is their own grief they can't sit with. They never dealt with their own loss, so they need you mourning right alongside them because your healing makes their stagnation look worse. That's the real tea.

Six of Cups

nostalgia, inner child, past connections, deep bonds

- This person is feeling that nostalgic pull toward you, that deep Scorpio energy undercurrent. They know you very well and you know them very well. The more people tried to hate on your connection, the more you turned it into love, and they're starting to become aware of that over time.
- What's really happening is they want what you got, that healed inner child spark, that light. You're tapped into something deep and familiar that they recognize from a past chapter, and it's calling them back whether they want it to or not.

Seven of Cups

illusion, fantasy, clarity, clouded vision

- Listen, this person's vision is completely clouded when it comes to you. They believed in the fantasy they created in their head about you, thought you were going to be this, thought you were going to be that. But you ain't afraid to tell it how it is now, like, this ain't working for me, period.

- The deeper truth is they just didn't see clearly, and that ain't a crime, but it ain't your problem either. They're learning the path of forgiving themselves for being a big old dummy about the whole situation, and that reckoning is hitting them right now.

Eight of Cups

walking away, intuition, cut off, moving on

- This person is thinking about the fact that you walked away, and it's haunting them. You listened to your intuition with that water energy and said I ain't going to sit here all day in a pity party because you can't get it together. They can feel you pulling your energy back and it's shaking them.
- What's really driving their thoughts is that something got completely cut off, some type of communication, some type of connection, gone. They didn't shoot their shot when they had the chance, and now they're sitting with the weight of knowing that window closed.

Nine of Cups

wish fulfillment, fighting feelings, manifestation, contentment

- Look, this person is secretly thinking about how you got exactly what you wanted, and they can't figure out how you did it. People are shocked at your ability to manifest. They see you revealing harsh truths about people and they're absolutely floored because everything they believed about you was wrong.
- The real tea is they're fighting the relationship, fighting how they truly feel, fighting what they really want. Somebody's got to face it, and they know it's them. They keep running from the fact that you are the wish fulfilled, not the obstacle.

Ten of Cups

complete connection, soul bond, manifestation, spirit confirmation

- The truth is, this person is thinking about you from A to Z. Like the whole world, the whole connection, everything. They see this as a complete soul connection where love wins, that everything-connected type of energy. Spirit is literally telling them yes about you.
- What's underneath is they are floored by what you can manifest together. Spirit is confirming this connection and they can feel it in their bones, but the magnitude of something this complete is what's making them hesitate. They ain't used to something this real.

apology, reaching out, intuition, emotional breakthrough

- This person wants to reach out, even if it's a small little gesture, whatever it is. They want to have some type of emotional breakthrough with you. Your intuition about them was never wrong, never, and that's what's sitting heavy on their mind right now.
- The deeper layer is this is an apology card. They looked into things and realized you were sitting there loyal the whole time while their anxiety had them tripping and accusing you of things that weren't even real. Now they got to swallow that.

Knight of Cups

protection, too late, divine protection, options

- Listen, people realize a little too late that you are very, very protected. This person tried to stab you in the back or make you look a certain way, and now they're thinking about the fact that spirit really does love you and will bring in new love just to prove it. You got options and they see every single one.
- What's really going on is they know, they know not to come for you like that again. They realize a little too late that your emotions are protected and the fake love they were showing got exposed the moment real ones started stepping up.

Queen of Cups

grace, gift, acceptance, honesty

- People are noticing that you bring this element of grace into situations, and this person is secretly thinking about how something about you is a gift and they're mad about it, like not just mad, they're sad about it too. They can feel something is about to blow up in the open.
- The real driver is they need to be honest about something, and the Queen of Cups energy in you is the one that actually accepts people. They know you could handle the truth if they just told it, and the fact that you would probably still show grace is what wrecks them the most.

King of Cups

emotional mastery, old ways, manipulation exposed, fear

- Look, this person thought you were naive and they could sell you a fantasy, but underneath they were trying to get you to look a certain way. They're realizing you can see right through the emotional manipulation and that wisdom without love ain't wisdom at all, it's just a beautiful corpse.
- What's really driving this is fear and anxiety causing them to act a fool, creating scenarios in their head about you that ain't even real. They're going from their old ways to a new way because something got put out into the open, and sometimes that's all it takes for the whole game to change.

SWORDS

Ace of Swords

clarity, cutting through, shock, truth arriving

- They thought they had you figured out, had you pinned, had you fooled. The truth just cut through every lie they built and now they're sitting there in shock because that fantasy got ripped right from under them. They were dead set this was going to work in their favor, and it never does.
- The deeper layer is total clarity arriving, no more fog, no more self-deception. They can't hide from what they know about you, and that sword of truth ain't something you can outrun.

Two of Swords

indecision, standoff, wanting, protecting the door

- This person sees something they want in you and they're trying to figure out how to get it, but they know they'd be crossing a line. There's a real standoff happening in their mind, wanting to reach out but not wanting to lose everything they already got by making that move.
- Look, the confusion is running on two levels, emotional and mental. They're stuck between what they feel and what they think is safe, and that mental blockage is keeping them frozen right where they are.

Three of Swords

truth about a partnership, can't stay quiet, heartbreak, hidden

- Listen, there's some type of truth about your connection that they can't stay quiet about anymore. They got to act on it, they got to say something, because holding it in is eating them alive. Something hidden is pushing its way to the surface whether they like it or not.
- The real driver here is that they're repressing something painful. They know the truth and it cuts, but they've been sitting on it hoping it would just go away. It ain't going away.

Four of Swords

peace, maintaining vibration, stillness, surrender

- They're secretly thinking about how you maintain your vibration no matter what they throw at you. You're sitting in your own element, in your own power, and they went through a whole emotional outburst trying to shake you loose. You didn't flinch.
- The truth is, your stillness and surrender energy is what's got them feeling some type of way. They can't figure out how you stay at peace when they're out here losing their composure, and that empowerment you carry without even trying is driving them up the wall.

Five of Swords

envy, jealousy, attachments failing, starting over

- People are noticing the spirit of envy and jealousy on this person, and their stories and their actions don't add up. They planned to send all kinds of spiritual attachments your way, tried to throw every bit of negativity at you, and none of that worked. Not one bit.
- The tea is they got to start over now, square one. Your energy brings all their hidden envy right to the surface where everybody can see it, and that mask they've been wearing just fell clean off.

Six of Swords

moving on, walking away, realized too late, exiled

- They realized a little too late that they never actually had you, not once. They thought you were attached, thought they had you locked down, and now they're watching you move on peacefully toward your goals while they sit with the consequences of their own toxic ways.
- The deeper truth is you ain't afraid to walk alone, and that terrifies them. You got exiled and pushed out only to become the king or the queen, and they can see you traveling toward something better without looking back once.

Seven of Swords

stalking, sneaking, caught looking, healing vibe

- Listen, this person doesn't want to get caught looking at your stuff, but other people are already noticing them stalking your pages and your socials. They're trying to see how much they can get away with, creeping around the edges, thinking they're slick about it.
- They realize too little too late that they can't get away with that kind of stuff with you. You stomped on their neck and they know it, and underneath all that sneaking around is the fact that your healing vibe pulls them back every single time even when they don't want it to.

Eight of Swords

trapped, mental prison, can't move, elevated perspective

- The truth is, something is just eating them up and they are stuck and they don't know why. They can't move, they don't understand what's holding them, and their mind is just not right. It could be wounds from the past, things burned into their memory that keep them bound.
- Meanwhile, people are noticing that you're not too much in your head, that you look at things from a higher perspective. The wisdom you carry elevates everyone around you, and this person is trapped in a self-imposed mental prison watching you rise above what they can't escape.

Nine of Swords

worried, anxiety, looping thoughts, options

- They know you got options and it's giving them a headache. They're worried about all the places you could go and all the things you could do, and that anxiety is looping in their mind on repeat. This is how deep it runs, this obsessive thinking about you and your next move.
- There's a real conflict between what this person thinks and what they feel. Their jealousy runs so deep it's keeping them up at night, and they're looking at themselves a little differently now because they can see the passion they still carry for you and it scares them.

Ten of Swords

cut off, betrayal, detachment, no celebration

- The tea is you can detach like nobody's business. Once somebody betrayed that emotional softness you carry, you retracted everything and it was done. They tried to say something to make people turn against you, tried to cut you with their words, and now ain't going to be no celebration for them.
- Ain't going to be no partying, no dancing, no drinking, no talking. They're not lying to nobody anymore, not even themselves, because that communication got cut completely and they know there's no coming back from what they did.

new perspective, loyalty doubted, potential, waves in happiness

- Somebody didn't think you were loyal, and that was coming from their own woundings, not from anything you actually did. Now they're gaining a new perspective and seeing the truth about who you really are. They're picking up on your mannerisms, your energy, and the mask is coming off.
- This person wanted to create waves in your happiness because things just come to you so easily and it makes them sick. But there's always potential for growth, always atonement, and they're starting to see they were never a lost cause for thinking what they thought about you.

Knigh of Swords

hiding something, not completely honest, rushing, eating them up

- Look, this person is not being completely honest about something and it's eating them alive. They got something they need to communicate, something only they would say, and they're holding it back because they know once it comes out there's no taking it back.
- The truth is, these people are not getting away with anything, and you're going to keep rising no matter what they hide. Something is stuck in them, they can't move, and they don't understand why, but it's because that Moon energy is telling them they need to look at what they've been ignoring.

Queen of Swords

cannot be manipulated, cut them off, see right through, boss

- People secretly think that you cannot be manipulated, period. You can see right through them, they feel like you can read their mind, and they know you will cut them off like no tomorrow. Blocked, gone, on the block list, done.

- Listen, this energy right here is a boss. You got options and you ain't afraid to walk alone. They think you're naive and dumb but you clock every single move, and the people who tried to ostracize you are the same ones watching you thrive without them.

King of Swords

too intelligent, reverse Uno, cold, trying to get in your head

- This person is trying to get you all up in your head, copying you, trying to break your mind. They're telling people you're cold, that you think you're too good, but the reverse Uno effect is that you're way too intelligent for their games. They love it when people are in disarray and you refuse to give them that.
- The truth is, they love creating drama, stirring the pot, pinning people against each other. They love that they caused chaos and they can't stand that it didn't work on you, because you're simply telling the truth and that's the one thing their calculated energy can't compete with.

WANDS

Ace of Wands

activation, impulse, can't even explain it, something got activated

- Look, this person can't even explain what's been activated in them about you. Something hit them out of nowhere, this raw impulse, and now they're trying to figure out why they can't stop thinking about you. It's like a fire got lit and they don't have a way to put it out.
- The truth is, this activation is bigger than attraction. Something in your energy changed the whole direction of what they thought they wanted, and they know nothing is going to be the same now.

Two of Wands

planning, barrier, moving forward, two people attracted

- Listen, this person is standing at the threshold with you on their mind, planning their next move. They see what's in front of them, they can't deny it, but there's still a barrier they haven't crossed yet. They're planning to move forward, they just don't know exactly where they want to land.
- The deeper layer is manipulation energy, smile in your face with a knife behind the back type of thing. People are noticing the spiritual attachments of jealousy and envy driving this person's so-called plans, and that contradiction in their energy is loud.

Three of Wands

watching from a distance, leaving, exploring, anticipating a shift

- This person is watching you from a distance, checking in, observing, imagining what the future could look like with you. They're anticipating some kind of shift between the two of you, and they're waiting for the right moment to make their move. They ain't just casually looking, they are locked in.
- The truth is, they want to move forward but something has been chaining them up. They're leaving an old cycle that kept them controlled and bound, and you represent the next level that's completely outside of all that.

Four of Wands

foundation, joining energies, celebration, loyalty

- This person secretly thinks your energy and their energy would work well together. They want to set up some sort of strong foundation with you, and things are speeding up in their mind even if you don't see it yet. There are fears and anxieties around it, but the desire to join with you is real.
- What's really driving this is they can't sell you a story and they know it. They can't come at you sideways because you're a very good judge of character, and that combination of intimidation and admiration has them wanting to prove they're loyal enough to deserve you.

Five of Wands

competition, conflict, one-sided rivalry, blocking out drama

- People secretly think you are very good at blocking out conflict, drama, gossip, and negativity. They push your boundaries, they put themselves in one-sided competition with you, and you make things look so effortless that it drives them absolutely crazy. That's their first problem right there.
- Listen, their anxiety and fears and worries got them behaving stupid. This is one-sided competition, they put themselves in it, not you. You didn't even enter the ring and they're already swinging at air.

Six of Wands

victory, confidence, magnetism, successfully overcome

- They're secretly thinking about how you've successfully overcome and matured, and it looks really good on you. That confidence, that communication, they want what you have, your aura, your light, your magnetism. They're looking at you like you just came out of a battle victorious.
- The truth is, nobody is around to celebrate with you and they see that too. You came out of this victorious but tired, and what's eating them up is that even exhausted, you still carry more authority than they do at their best.

Seven of Wands

defending, protecting, holding your ground, fighting against challengers

- This person secretly thinks about how they can get past your defenses because you're protecting something before it's depleted or damaged and they can see it. They'll try to come in and say something needs to be fixed, that's how they try to get in, by playing the repair person on your life.
- The real energy here is they want everybody coming after you, not just them, because they couldn't do it alone. They want to pin everybody against you, create all this conflict, then sit back laughing and relishing it while you defend your ground.

Eight of Wands

focused on a target, rapid movement, sparking conversation, looking you up

- Listen, this person is focused and their energy is coming right at you like a target. They're looking you up in secret, fake pages, I don't know what they're doing, but they secretly want to spark up a conversation with you. They are sad and they are searching.
- What's really happening is they're taking their last shots because this cycle is almost closed. They know if they don't act now, the window shuts, and that urgency has them doing things they normally wouldn't do.

Nine of Wands

guard up, still standing, protecting the doorway, perseverance

- This person is secretly thinking about how you are still standing no matter what they throw at you. There is just something about you that rubs them the wrong way and they go a little mental, a little psycho about it. They've tried once, twice, three times, and your guard is still up.
- The truth is, they can feel your energy protecting your doorway and it intimidates them. They know you know they're going to make a move, and the fact that you already see it coming before they even step is what keeps them circling instead of charging.

Ten of Wands

burden, carrying silently, destructive attraction, toxicity

- Look, this connection has been weighing on this person silently. They've been carrying whatever's been on their mind about you and they know they need to let some of this burden go, but they can't bring themselves to just come back or just walk away. It's heavy on them.
- The real tea is this feels destructive, like something got set on fire in a spiritual way. They can choose this toxicity if they want it, but the attraction is almost unhealthy and they know it, they just don't want to face that truth yet.

preparing, going a different direction, immature energy, holding on

- This person is secretly thinking about going in a completely different direction for you, and it's scaring them because they would never normally make a decision based on a relationship. Something about you has them considering moves they never thought they'd make. That's how strong your pull is.
- Underneath all that is some past immaturity they're sitting with. Someone was unfair, maybe even love bombed or strung you along, and now they're holding on to something they should have let go of a long time ago. They're preparing but they ain't ready.

Knight of Wands

something ain't right, charging forward, lusty energy, can't hold back

- Listen, this person is secretly thinking they can't hold it in any longer. They're like, I need to do something, if I don't act soon I will blow up. They want to charge forward, they want to explore your shadow side, that primal energy, and it's consuming them from the inside out.
- The truth is, something ain't right with how they're moving. There's lusty, obsessive, low vibrational energy driving this, and they're using rotten tactics to get close. That devil energy has them looking you up, and you can see right through every bit of it.

Queen of Wands

confident, intimidating, can't manipulate, rushing the process

- People secretly want to rush the process with you, whether that's getting into the sack or getting into your life, but they cannot manipulate you in any sort of way and that is intimidating to them. Your confidence, your independence, it makes them desperate to find a shortcut that doesn't exist.
- What's really going on is someone is begging spirit for something not to be their outcome. They're willing to lie and hide the truth so they don't have to live with the consequences, but people are noticing, and that fire sign energy of yours burns right through the deception.

King of Wands

fire sign, taking the lead, face value, truth and evidence

- This person secretly knows that you are taking people at face value now, looking at their actions and not their words, and it terrifies them. You're taking ownership and leadership in your own life with your own thinking, and they realize a little too late that the old tricks don't work anymore.
- The deeper layer is they can see the truth, they can see the evidence, but accepting it ain't simple for them. They don't take this lightly, it's scary, like stepping into deep water when you can't touch the bottom, and that King of Wands fire in you is what makes the depth feel so real.

PENTACLES

Ace of Pentacles

new opportunity, contract, manifestation, seed planted

- Look, this person is thinking about making something real with you. They see an opportunity here, something binding, something that could actually manifest into a contract or a commitment. They ain't just daydreaming, they're calculating what it would take to plant this seed and watch it grow.
- The truth is, they know that if they don't express what they want, nothing materializes. They're scared that speaking it into existence means they can't take it back, and that pressure is sitting heavy on them right now.

Two of Pentacles

balance, juggling, building, finding equilibrium

- This person is secretly thinking about how to keep their balance around you. They're juggling their feelings, their situation, their whole energy trying to figure out how to make this work without dropping everything else they got going on.
- Listen, underneath all that juggling, they see something that could grow. They want to keep building with you, but they're terrified that one wrong move tips the whole thing over.

Three of Pentacles

- The tea is, this person is thinking about how to triangulate your situation. They're pinning people against each other, trying to figure out what's being said, who's doing what, and where they fit into the picture. They want information you ain't giving them.
- What's really driving this is they put their energy into something with you, worked hard on it, and now they feel left out in the cold. They can't accept that you chose yourself over their little scheme, and it's eating them alive.

Four of Pentacles

holding on, can't let go, future faking, protecting energy

- This person is secretly holding on tight to a version of you that doesn't exist. They don't want to let go of that fantasy, that image they built in their head. They're clutching it because the real you, the one with boundaries, scares them.
- The truth is, they tried to sell you a fantasy and you didn't buy it. They realize a little too late that they can't future fake you, and now they're scrambling to protect whatever control they think they still have.

Five of Pentacles

lack, patience, delayed gratification, unbothered

- Listen, they're thinking about why you don't care anymore and it's driving them crazy. They expected you to be out here stressed, looking all types of depleted, but you're sitting in patience like it's nothing. That delayed gratification energy you carry, they can't figure it out.
- What's really going on is they came in with ill intent, smiling in your face, pretending to have your best interest. You lack nothing, and that's the tea, because you've matured past the point where their little games can touch you.

Six of Pentacles

fair exchange, honesty, getting what you deserve, reciprocity

- This person is secretly thinking about whether they can knock you off balance. They're trying to give you a reason to react emotionally, doing things on purpose to get you to juggle your intuition. But it ain't working because you can see right through them.
- The truth is, they can't be honest about what they want, so how can they get it? Whatever is hidden got to come to light, and they know their energy ain't matching what you've been putting in. That imbalance is keeping them up at night.

Seven of Pentacles

patience, reaping what you sow, karma, one step ahead

- Look, they're thinking about how you're always one step ahead and they cannot figure out how you do it. People are noticing the work you've been putting into yourself, and this person is watching the harvest come in while they're still out here planting weeds.
- There's karma here, and they feel it. As you reap, you will sow, and this person knows deep down that the masks fall off when they're around you. You elicit something out of them they can't control, and that terrifies them.

Eight of Pentacles

mastery, skilled, boundaries, not chasing

- The tea is, this person views you as very skilled and not chasing, and they hate it. You've mastered the analysis of people's communication styles, you can tell their true character, and they know it. They might even be out here gossiping because they can't get you to play their game.
- Listen, you didn't just date people and that's it. People are noticing that you've learned, grown, and evolved through every relationship, and you've mastered pretty much everything this person thought would be your weakness. That mastery is what haunts them.

Nine of Pentacles

independence, abundance, God's in your corner, holding your own

- This person is secretly thinking that you're doing just fine without them and it's making them upset. They're creating thoughts in their head that ain't even true, getting themselves worked up over the idea that you don't need them. Your independence is louder than anything they could ever say.
- God's in your corner, and when you have God in your corner it beats out anything. You worked your ass off for that freedom, and they thought it was easy. Some things you're just not allowed to know about, and that boundary you hold is exactly what keeps them spiraling.

Ten of Pentacles

legacy, generational curses broken, wanting what you have, protecting peace

- Look, they want what you have. They want your mentality, your perception, your resilience, all of it. You broke some generational curses here and these are people that just cannot break free themselves. They might want your money, they might want a family, but what they really want is your whole energy.
- The truth is, you're out here protecting your peace, redirecting your energy, and they can't stand it. They couldn't see a thing, they are blind, and whatever test they sent your way, you saw it coming before they even stepped to you.

planting seeds, wanting to make it real, character speaks, practical action

- This person is thinking about how to get inside your head some sort of way. They might be trying to recreate you, trying to break your mind, planting little seeds to see what grows. But your character, your integrity, your communication style speaks for you, speaks volumes.
- Underneath all that scheming, there's a part of them that actually wants to make things real. They want to take practical action but they don't know where to start, and that confusion is what turns their energy dark when they can't figure you out.

Knight of Pentacles

endurance, long-term, determination, do something about it

- Listen, this person wants something long-term with you, they want to offer you endurance and determination no matter how long it takes. They're sitting there thinking about creating something real, something that lasts, and their intentions are to follow their intuition straight to you.

- The truth is, this person may have caused you a lot of grief in the past. They're done competing with themselves, and now they're trying to prove they can show up with that slow, steady, I ain't going nowhere energy. The question is whether they actually earned it.

Queen of Pentacles

going deeper, choosing themselves, scared it's real, manifestation

- The tea is, this person is choosing to go deeper into something with you and they don't want to stay in the same spot anymore. They're thinking about layers, about what this could become emotionally, practically, all of it. Your materialistic world drew them in and now they're stuck.
- But listen, they are scared. They're scared about whether this is going to be real because of things that have happened to them before. They did something they wasn't supposed to do and now they're trying to figure out if they can come correct without their past blowing everything up.

King of Pentacles

aligned, knows what they want, resources, leader energy

- Look, this person sees you in a leader role, not following anyone, setting up your own thing, and it's got their energy on overdrive. They know you know what you're talking about, you know how you feel, you're aligned, and that combination of confidence and resources is something they can't ignore.
- The truth is, they know that if they invest their time, they're going to be surprised at what comes back. They know this devil ain't no good, whatever situation or person has been whispering in their ear, and your King energy is the thing that exposes it without you even trying.

MAJOR ARCANA

new beginning, divine timing, energy can't be destroyed, confirmations, fighting feelings

- They're secretly thinking you're about to start something brand new, and it scares them because they can't predict your next move. Look, you carry this energy where you just leap and the net appears. They're watching you fight through what you really want, and they know you're about to face it head on.
- The truth is, they sense divine timing all around you. Energy can't be created or destroyed, and whatever pull you're feeling toward something new, they feel it radiating off you too, and it makes them question every safe choice they ever made.

The Magician

manifestation, self-assured, magnetic, organized, quick-witted, speaking into existence

- They're secretly thinking you're self-assured in a way that ain't normal. Like you always know what to say, you're organized, you're quick-witted, and if somebody came at you in a battle of words you'd win every single time. People are looking at you like you brought this energy in yourself, like you manifested this whole situation on purpose.
- What's really driving that thought is they've watched you speak things into existence and then act like it was nothing. You envision something, you say it out loud, and then it happens. That kind of power makes people uneasy because they can't do it themselves.

The High Priestess

psychic, intuition, confirmation, red flags, spiritual knowing, reading energy

- They're secretly thinking you know something you shouldn't know. Like you got some kind of confirmation about what's really going on, and now you're sitting there quiet with all the receipts. They realize you're not going to sit there and just let somebody read your mind anymore.
- The deeper layer is they're trying to trigger your abandonment wounds, throw shade, set you up for failure, and you ain't biting. Your intuition already told you what they were doing before they even did it, and that silence you're carrying is louder than anything they could say.

The Empress

magnetic, secret admirers, winning energy, unstoppable, minds racing

- Listen, they're secretly thinking how can I become like them. You got this energy where you know what you want, you know what you don't want, you know what you allow and what you don't allow. People are taking bits and pieces of who you are and trying to incorporate that into themselves without making it obvious.

- The truth is, you just make people's minds race. You got a lot of secret admirers, honey. They see you looking like you're succeeding, like you're winning, like the wheel don't stop for you, and it drives them crazy that they can't figure out how you do it.

The Emperor

Aries, initiative, authority, spells backfiring, defamation failing, watching you

- They're secretly thinking they could put some sort of spell on you, some kind of control, and their spells are backfiring right in their face. Like one of those firecrackers that blows up in your hand instead of going forward. They honestly thought they had authority over your situation and they were dead wrong.
- What's really going on is they're trying defamation of character, trying to destroy your reputation. But here's the thing, they ain't got no proof. They're watching you from the past, closing out their own cycle, and confirming what your intuition already told you.

The Hierophant

tradition, belief systems, skilled, competition, rebelling, status quo

- They're secretly thinking you're very skilled at what you do and you're working toward something and you're going to make it, and it is what it is. They're in competition with you somehow but they don't want people to know that. Now they're trying to be nice to get back in your good graces.
- The deeper layer is this person is rebelling against everything conventional because of you. They don't want to follow the status quo anymore. Your energy made them question their whole belief system, their traditions, every rule they thought they had to follow, and now they're unraveling.

The Lovers

choice, duality, oath, fear of choosing, obsession disguised as love

- They're secretly thinking about taking some kind of oath with you, and it terrifies them. It don't always have to be marriage on paper, sometimes it's just choosing somebody, and that act of choosing feels like a sacred commitment they ain't sure they're ready for.
- The truth is, their wanting became something darker. What started as genuine attraction crossed into obsession disguised as love. They're fighting how they truly feel, fighting what they really want, and somebody's going to have to face it because it ain't going away.

destiny, moving forward, blocking quickly, no time for nonsense, belief attracts

- They're secretly thinking that you block people real quick and you have zero time for what they got to say. You move on so fast it makes their head spin. They think you don't even want to listen to them anymore, like you just cut the cord and kept driving.
- What's really underneath that is your belief that you don't have to chase anything, the plan will find you. Something's coming toward you, not the other way around. That destiny energy is undeniable, and they know they can't stop what's already in motion.

Strength

courage, overcoming, prioritizing self, inner strength, breaking out of trauma

- They're secretly thinking about how you prioritize yourself in difficult times and it makes them lose their composure. You're making people question themselves just by choosing your own needs first. They keep trying to attach their energy to you and you keep shaking it off.
- The deeper layer is about overcoming. They've watched you break out of trauma, watched you be stronger than whatever they threw at you, and they can't get their way no matter what they try. That inner courage you carry is something they ain't equipped to match.

The Hermit

Virgo energy, wisdom, psychic knowing, solitude, detachment, peace

- They're secretly thinking you're wise as hell and that Virgo energy you carry lets you see when people are acting funny before they even make their move. You know they're going to stab you in the back, so you walk away and detach from the situation before they even get the chance.
- The truth is, people are noticing how you don't remain stuck for long. You allow the confusion to bring in some sort of clarity, and that's what really gets them. They see you unsure for a moment and then suddenly you've got the answer, and they're still standing there wondering how you found it.

Wheel of Fortune

turning in your favor, luck, good fortune, lessons learned, spirit's got you

- They're secretly thinking that you're attracting good luck and fortune toward you and they are beside themselves about it. This person is possessive, they might be gossiping about you, but you keep focusing on opportunities and just ignore them. Things are turning in your favor and they can't stand it.
- What's really driving this is they're stuck in their mind, in all the reasons why they can't. Anybody can sabotage their own situation, anybody can turn something positive into negative, but you chose not to, and they gave in to that sabotage while you gave in to your soul. That's the difference.

Justice

balance, truth revealed, toxic situations, ease and flow, third parties exposed

- They're secretly thinking about how you move out of toxic situations with ease and flow and it don't make sense to them. Your ability to leave the past in the past, your inner child healing, people want that from you. They see you withdrawing emotionally and it's like a mirror showing them everything they ain't.
- The deeper truth is that everything hidden gets drawn to light, and they know it. They thought they were victorious in their lies, in their secrecy, but third parties are getting exposed and the truth is coming out that someone has no love within them. Justice don't miss.

The Hanged Man

perspective, surrender, seeing differently, talking behind your back, peeping the truth

- They're secretly thinking about you from a completely different angle now, like their whole perspective shifted and they can't go back. You can see the words that have not been spoken, you can peep what's going on behind your back, and they realize a little too late that you are actually very intelligent.
- What's really going on is they've been stuck and they've been silent, and now they are done waiting, caps lock done. They surrendered their old beliefs because of you, gained an alternate view of everything they thought they knew, and that Mars energy has them ready to act on it.

regeneration, shocked, rebirth, shedding, lotus flower, manifestation from decay

- Look, they're secretly thinking that people are shocked at your regeneration rate. You never die. Because of the way you speak and the way you carry yourself, the light you hold, they can't believe you keep coming back stronger every single time they thought you were finished.
- The truth is, you grow and manifest off of death and decay like a lotus flower. People are shocked at your ability to cut through lies and deception and turn all that rot into something powerful. That's why people watch you, that's why they can't look away, and that's why they'll never count you out again.

Temperance

alchemy, Sagittarius, balance, alchemizing energy, creating opportunities, staying on path

- They're secretly thinking about how you alchemize everything they send at you and turn it into opportunities. Whatever negative energy, whatever attacks, you take that and create something out of it, and they're sitting there scratching their head wondering why none of it is working against you.
- The deeper layer is Sagittarius energy, balance, staying on your path. Ain't nobody care what they got to say. Don't let these demons trick you, don't let them sway you or tempt you. You are the master of alchemy and they know it, which is exactly why they keep trying and keep failing.

lust, attachment, energy siphoning, playing with fire, ancient energy, recognition

- They're secretly thinking about that attachment, that chase, that energy siphoning they want from you. They love being chased, they want their harem, they want to take your energy and feed off it. This person is playing with fire and they don't even know what they're messing with.
- The truth is, you recognize the Devil when he wears a different meat suit. Same energy, different person, and you can see right through every last one of them. They're ancient and so are you, and with that ancientness comes Divine messages that tell you exactly who to trust and who to cut.

sudden change, manifestation, humiliation backfiring, unexpected miracles, direction shift

- They're secretly thinking that one action is about to change everything in your situation. It might change the direction, it might change the outcome, it might surprise them like a person they never saw coming. Something unexpected is always promised, and you are entering that window right now.
- The deeper layer is there are humiliation ritual vibes, most definitely, but you're not worried about it. Whatever they tried to do to publicly discredit you always ends in backfire for the one who attempted it. That's structural, that's a promise, and they're about to learn that lesson the hard way.

purpose, divine mission, sacred sight, specific skills, healing, out of this world

- They're secretly thinking that spirit and the divine send you on specific purposes for specific missions and they can't figure out how you always know where to go. You are somebody who stares through the soul, and these people who are too materialistically focused can't even see what you see.
- The truth is, they couldn't see anything. They are blind. You are so out of this world that you can see exactly what's happening and there is no mistaking any of it. This is like a test for them, and they already failed it before they even started.

The Moon

psychic sight, seeing through the dark, subconscious fears, navigating deception, speeding up

- They're secretly thinking you're insanely psychic because you can see through the dark. You can perceive lies underneath truths, you can see the unseen, you know how to navigate through people's words, their body language, how they move. They can't hide anything from you and it's making them afraid.
- What's really driving this is their subconscious fears are speeding up and they can feel it. Things are moving faster than they anticipated, good news is incoming for you, and they got some decisions to make because someone might be leaving for real this time, and there ain't nothing they can do to slow it down.

The Sun

spotlight, all eyes on you, undeniable, keys, always winning, bringing to light

- They're secretly thinking that you get what you want all the time, every single time, and there's nothing you don't get. People are looking at you like you hold the keys. All eyes on you right now, and somebody's about to bring something to light that puts you even higher.
- The truth is, your talent is undeniable. Like a singer that is just a singer and you're not going to sit there and say they can't sing. They have a unique voice, they're different, they can do this, that, and the third. That's you, and the Sun coming out twice means this is maximum confirmation from spirit.

Judgement

reckoning, accountability, manipulation failing, too little too late, karma

- They're secretly thinking their manipulation game was going to work on you, and they're realizing a little too late that the fantasy is over. They thought they had you under wraps, thought they were going to get this big ticket, and now they're seeing that none of it played out the way they planned.
- The deeper layer is a reckoning. Two people in this situation are being held accountable at the same time, and whatever they said, whatever they've done many times, it's coming back around. Raise your vibration and keep your composure because the judgment ain't yours to worry about, it's theirs.

The World

completion, closing the cycle, Saturn, intellectual richness, shell vs depth, shook

- They're secretly thinking about how people saw you online and they are just shook. At first they were attracted to your shell, thought they could treat you a certain way, maneuver around you, make certain choices. The World card is closing that cycle right there, something is complete, it's finished, nothing can be done about it.
- The truth is, you carry this intellectual richness underneath the surface that they never expected. They get into your energy and realize you're not what they assumed at all. That Saturn energy is bringing acceptance, understanding, and the mastery that comes from finishing what you started while they're still trying to figure out where they went wrong.

Card Meanings

Two lines of meaning, then the clarifier and combo read

CUPS

Ace of Cups

new love, healing, emotional gift, fresh feeling

- Look, the Ace of Cups is a brand new beginning somebody wants to offer, but they're stuck in their feelings about it, sad and overthinking it when they don't have to. You can just go and do the thing instead of analyzing it to death.
- Deeper, this card is about healing something, somebody knowing how they feel and a real gift lined up for them. Watch the shadow, because sometimes it's somebody trying to come in and take that gift before you ever get to drink from it.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier this card says somebody is emotionally available and expecting something to arrive. Next to the Three of Wands it reads as someone ready to shoot their shot, next to Justice it means that fresh feeling is tied to real accountability, court and karma coming back around.

Two of Cups

partnership, mutual bond, protect your peace, no fantasy

- The Two of Cups is somebody that wants to move toward this relationship, real partnership energy, but you're done falling for fantasy. You're falling for facts, you got logical over the years and you can't be future-faked anymore.
- The deeper read is karma. People thought they could come in with some sort of illusion and mass-fake a future, and they can't, so they realize a little too late that you protect your peace at all costs. The karma is hitting them mid-storm.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card it points straight at a truth about a partnership. Next to the Three of Swords somebody has to say the painful thing out loud, next to the Knight of Cups it's a passionate person going crazy trying to move this bond forward.

Three of Cups

celebration, community, third party, reconciliation

- The Three of Cups is celebration and community, but Chiron reads it as something about a third party here. It could be cheating, could be a divorce because somebody stepped out, never as simple as that but that's the flavor.
- The other layer is somebody wanting to reconcile and mend something they broke in a past cycle, scared because of everything they've done. They think you'll be defensive and won't hear it, so they hesitate.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier this card adds others involved, a whole network. Next to the Lovers it's a web of partnerships and soul-tribe connection, next to the Devil that loose celebration energy curdles into temptation and a fork in the road you'll have to cleanse from.

Four of Cups

apathy, rejection, stuck in their ways, incoming offer

- The Four of Cups is somebody stuck in their ways, acting content when nobody really wants to just be content. People want to live, want love, want passion, and this person stays bored at the cup being offered.
- Reversed it flips on them, because you ain't afraid of rejection anymore and people are noticing you'll stay in the uncomfortable feelings. The shadow side is the beginning of rejection itself, somebody cut off, stalled, alone and quiet.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card it reads as a lot of words with no meaning. Next to the Six of Wands somebody's saying plenty but it's empty noise, next to the Eight of Pentacles it's you grinding away waiting as good news is incoming.

Five of Cups

grief, loss, mourning, trapped in sadness

- The Five of Cups is grief over what is lost, lamenting what got spilled. Chiron says it plain, somebody going through it and mourning a choice that didn't have to be marriage on paper, just an oath to somebody.
- The shadow is darker, because they want to trap you in sadness, take your light, take your shine, make you feel backed into a corner with no options left. That's the manipulation, convincing you you have no other choice but to give up.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier next to Justice it means the walking away is deserved, the loss is proportional and fair, competitors leaving having lost something real. Next to the World it's old past grief somebody finally needs to let go of.

Six of Cups

nostalgia, inner child, familiar past, deep bonds

- The Six of Cups is that healed inner child spark, that light people can feel and want a piece of. The more they hate, the more you turn it into love, and that nostalgic glow is exactly what they're noticing.
- Deeper it's the deep emotional bonds, Scorpio-level undercurrent where you know somebody very well and they know you. Watch the shadow, because something familiar can be a doorway something predatory uses to slip in by impersonating what felt safe.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card it warns that someone's trying to recreate an old bond for use. Next to the Seven of Swords that sweet familiar warmth becomes a tactic, next to Judgement it's somebody closing out a past cycle as they watch you from the outside.

Seven of Cups

illusion, clouded vision, fantasy, can't see clearly

- The Seven of Cups is when you can't see clearly, clouded vision and fantasy dressed up to look appealing. Chiron flips it for the querent, you're good, you're healed, you know who you are on the inside and you don't need any of it.
- The deeper read is you calling it how it is now, because you ain't afraid to tell the truth. Before you'd give people a million chances and believe the fantasy you built in your head about them, and you're done doing that.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier it shows the other side fighting shadows, defensive against nothing and you pay them no mind. Under the Devil it's their binding and blindness, next to the Nine of Wands it's your own guarded wisdom seeing straight through the illusion.

Eight of Cups

walking away, intentional departure, going deeper, leaving what binds

- The Eight of Cups is walking away from what no longer serves, the intentional departure toward something deeper. You're listening to your intuition with that water energy, no more staying in a pity party for somebody who can't get it together.
- The deeper layer is choosing yourself on purpose, because you walked away and felt the collective pulling on your energy but went anyway. It's a deliberate decision to go inward on purpose or go further into what's real.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card it sets up an ending. Next to the Ten of Swords it's a connection completely cut off, somebody who didn't shoot their shot or got severed with finality. Next to the Three of Wands that closing cycle was you escaping someone controlling and binding.

Nine of Cups

wish fulfilled, contentment, satisfaction, fighting the feeling

- The Nine of Cups is the wish fulfilled, personal contentment and knowing exactly what you truly want. It's about being happy with yourself and aligned, having power over something instead of repressing it.
- The deeper read is somebody fighting that contentment, because they're scared to open up even when it would change everything for the good. Clarity arrives, the mind panics about it, but underneath is the fulfilled desire of someone in love resisting it.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier next to the High Priestess it means people feel safe around you, you take away their fears. Next to the Seven of Swords that satisfaction sours into somebody trying to get away with something on the slide, sneaking what they want.

Ten of Cups

complete connection, soul connection, love wins, fulfillment

- The Ten of Cups is from A to Z when it comes to connections, the whole world, love winning here. That's a complete soul connection, everything connected, and that's exactly what it deserved.
- The deeper layer is the read where spirit is telling you yes, no flaw in it, complete connection straight through. People get floored by your ability to manifest this and reveal hard truths, because you're the contradiction of everything they assumed.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card with the Ace of Cups it completes the arc, the seed of love grown into lasting wholeness, generational and full. Next to the Page of Swords it shows somebody mad you attract your soul's purpose so easily as they try to make waves in your happiness.

intuition, apology, soft gesture, emotional reach-out

- The Page of Cups says your intuition is never wrong, never. You picked up the information on the person trying to bind you, and you said not today

Satan, you saw it coming.

- The softer layer is somebody wanting to reach out, even a small gesture, hungry for some kind of emotional breakthrough with you despite all the heaviness. It's an apology card, the urge to mend showing up gentle.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier next to the High Priestess it reads as being kind and not reacting as somebody, often a Queen of Swords, comes in purposely to put claws in. Next to the Moon it darkens, somebody trying to use those intuitive gifts for dark intentions and destruction.

Knight of Cups

passionate pursuit, shooting their shot, boundary, can't stop thinking

- The Knight of Cups is somebody passionate and going crazy, can't think of nothing else, ready to come out of acting like they don't want something. When's the last time you saw a hand come out of a cloud offering a blessing like this.
- The deeper read is love that heals, because somebody takes them away from their own sabotage and that's why a person is in love. But this Knight also knows where the line is, dead serious, that boundary is off limits and they know not to cross it.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card it's the bold romantic advance. Next to the Two of Cups it's somebody who wants to shoot their shot at this relationship, next to the Nine of Cups and Seven of Swords it turns sketchy, somebody passionate but trying to get away with something on the slide.

Queen of Cups

emotional wisdom, acceptance, honesty, grace

- The Queen of Cups is the one who accepts somebody, so whatever it is might not be that bad, because everyone has different gauges of what they can and can't accept. She brings grace into situations and people are noticing that and the confidence under it.
- The deeper layer is honesty and earned wisdom, because she needs to be honest about what she's holding on to. When she's got the wisdom now, that's the tea, and sometimes she serves justice on a gold platter for everybody who pushed her there.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier next to the Page of Cups it's intuition that refuses to be tricked, calling out the love spell and the binder. Next to the Page of Pentacles it's somebody planting new seeds with a water sign or handing them a gift, a new relationship taking root.

King of Cups

emotional mastery, old ways to new, honesty, willpower

- The King of Cups is somebody going from their old ways to a new way, because something got put out into the open and somebody was honest. Sometimes that's all it takes, one conversation that needed to be had.
- The deeper read is emotional mastery and strong willpower, because if nobody comes out and says something there's no chance of it surviving. This is the subconscious mind too, and when this card doubles up it tells you the pursuit of love and the mastery of feeling is the whole undeniable theme.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card it carries strong mental willpower and a cut-off game. Next to the Moon things speed up and old past energy surfaces, next to the Queen of Swords and the Tower it can't coexist with the suffering cards, the field splits into two incompatible energies.

SWORDS

clarity, truth, breakthrough, cutting through ambiguity, mental power

- Look, the Ace of Swords is the sword of clarity, it cuts through ambiguity to hand you the truth straight, no fog, no room for self-deception. When this hits the tea is out and it ain't getting put back.
- The deeper read is the shock that comes with it. People were dead set they had you pinned, they had you fooled, and then the truth rips that fantasy right from under them, they realize too late the whole thing never worked in their favor.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier this card confirms you have the information you need, the sword has arrived. Next to the Sun it doubles down, somebody has to be clear about what they want and who they are, no more hiding behind the fog.

Two of Swords

indecision, stalemate, standoff, blocked, weighing the choice

- The Two of Swords is the standoff, that place where you allow a level of confusion and just stay with it. You see the potential in staying in the shadow, holding the difficult perspective instead of forcing a move you ain't ready for.

- Deeper down this is a choice not made yet, you genuinely don't know, and the truth is that's allowed. You're able, building your own foundation, and you don't owe anybody a fast answer just because they want one.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card it splits confusion onto two planes, emotional and mental, when it is with a Cups card. Next to the Five of Swords somebody knows they're crossing a line, they want the thing but they know it's wrong, and pushing past that door costs everything.

Three of Swords

heartbreak, painful truth, the wound, a truth about a partnership

- The Three of Swords is heartbreak, that painful piercing of what was being held, and most times it's some kind of truth about a partnership. Somebody has to say the thing knowing it's going to hurt.

- The deeper layer is the silence around it. Something's hidden, a person could be repressing it, and the truth is you can't stay quiet, you got to act on it so somebody finally sees what's real.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier this card spells out the painful information that needs delivering. Next to the Two of Cups it's the wound inside the bond, and next to the Page of Swords the message has a messenger, somebody must speak so the truth gets known.

Four of Swords

rest, stillness, withdrawal, maintaining the vibration, not getting distracted

- The Four of Swords is stillness, you sit between the swords in your own element and you maintain the vibration of surrender. There's a crow, a raven, somebody waving distraction at you, but you don't chase it.
- The shadow read is when stillness turns tactical. This ain't always healthy rest, sometimes a person goes quiet on purpose, staying still so they don't get detected, covering something up as they wait you out.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card it deepens whatever hidden energy is beside it. Next to the Moon and the Devil it reads as concealment, somebody doesn't want to be detected, behind the scenes, holding their hand close and playing the patient game.

Five of Swords

conflict, winning at a cost, envy, jealousy, the stab in the back

- The Five of Swords is conflict where one person wins and the rest get left humiliated. Watch the energy, this is the one walking over with a knife behind their back, ready to run up and stab somebody the moment they turn.
- The deeper read is the spirit of envy and jealousy on them. People are noticing those spiritual attachments, and because their stories and their actions don't add up, none of it works, they got to start over at square one.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier it shows who gets bothered when you disrupt something. Under the Tower it's the sting felt by the witnesses, you shatter something and it bothers people, the ones who counted on the old order being left in the dust.

Six of Swords

moving forward, transition, the way out, moving away from toxicity, grace

- The Six of Swords is the way forward, plain and simple, moving away from toxicity and the things that don't serve you. You move on toward your goals peacefully, with an element of grace, not worried about the competition.
- The deeper read is the exile that becomes the crown. Exiled and pushed out only to come back king and queen, and what they realize too little too late is that you walk alone unafraid, you were never as attached as they thought.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card it points the spread toward the destination. Next to the Three of Cups and the Lovers it's a soul tribe, this is the way forward, and next to the Two of Swords your cut-off game is strong even when you're unsure how to move.

Seven of Swords

deception, sneaking, scheming, doing it on the slide, lies

- The Seven of Swords is the one who takes what ain't theirs and moves in secret, believing they can dodge the consequences. They're trying to do it on the slide, sliding past you as they think nobody clocked it.
- The deeper read is lies and negative judgments placed on you, illusions somebody's trying to make stick. The truth is you ain't afraid to call it, go ahead and lie, your energy brings all that crawling deception to light.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier this card exposes the schemer in the spread. Next to the Nine of Swords obsession turns into stalking, and next to the Knight of Swords the mask comes off, somebody who watches and mimics, doing it all on the slide.

Eight of Swords

feeling trapped, self-imposed limitation, mental bondage, stuck, repressed truth

- The Eight of Swords is self-imposed limitation, that feeling of being trapped in a situation that's got more exits than the person can see. The bindings are mental, the door's open, they just can't look at it yet.
- The deeper read is repression and the silence it breeds. They're scared of what their truth is going to do, so they stay quiet, but you have to be your truth, because all that bottled energy has to find a channel somewhere.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card it spells out the cage somebody's standing in. Next to Strength the way out is inner courage, not force, and next to the Moon and the Devil it's repressed energy that's been hidden so long it has to break loose.

Nine of Swords

anxiety, worry, looping thought, sleepless dread, overthinking

- The Nine of Swords is worry, that looping sleepless thought, somebody scared or really thinking hard about a move. It's the 3am mind that won't shut off, turning the same fear over and over.
- The deeper read is who the worry belongs to. Maybe a person's worried about the action you're taking, maybe about their own, or maybe you're worried about your own action, and the healing is releasing the lie that things have to be perfect.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier it marks mental preoccupation, usually about a move somebody's afraid to make. Next to the Ace of Wands the desire is there but the fear stalls the action, next to the Emperor that loop is somebody scheming to bind you down.

Ten of Swords

definitive ending, the final blow, betrayal, words that wound, total cutoff

- The Ten of Swords is the definitive ending, the final blow, something completely cut off. Communication severed, somebody having to walk away, the door shut with finality and no half-measure to it.
- The deeper read is the wound that words can do. There's certain things you can say to make people not want to deal with somebody, gossip and harm aimed to ruin, but once that softness gets betrayed you detach like that, retracted and gone.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card it closes the story out for good. After the Eight of Cups it's the walk-away made final, and next to the Hermit it confirms this energy is blocked off, it should never be unblocked, the Devil knocking gets a permanent no.

new information, fresh perspective, the messenger, watching, crossroads

- The Page of Swords is the watcher and the bearer of news, the one bringing information you didn't have. People gain a new perspective, there's learning here, a crossroads with real potential for growth.
- The deeper read is the envy that trails an easy-flowing destiny. Somebody wanted to create waves in your happiness because things come to you so easy, and that mess they threw at your feet, you walked right over it onto your soul's purpose.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier it points to information or a perceived label in the spread. Next to the Hierophant a title becomes a barrier in somebody's head, a title gets in their way, when the truth is it was never the obstacle they made it.

Knight of Swords

talking but not honest, hiding the truth, communicating, avoiding shadow work

- The Knight of Swords is somebody talking, asserting their thoughts through their words, but not saying the truth. They've got a lot to say, plenty of it, and none of it is what they actually feel.
- The deeper read is the hiding underneath the noise. They're going through their own process over something they wanted, not being completely honest, and what they really need is the shadow work they keep trying to move past.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card it flags a story with a crack in it. Next to the Seven of Swords the mask is off and people catch the stalking, and next to the Four of Pentacles somebody needs to speak and make the communication solid.

Queen of Swords

sharp, strategic, calculated, intelligent, sees right through you

- The Queen of Swords is sharp, honest, clear-spoken, the one who sees right through people. They feel like you can read their mind, that you can't be manipulated, and that you'll cut them off with no tomorrow.
- The deeper read flips that directness when the energy goes covert. Placed in shadow her intelligence gets deployed undercover, she still has a motive, it's just hidden, dropping hints instead of saying what she means.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier next to the Moon she becomes a calculated, strategic communicator, the motive stays hidden as the moves run undercover. It's a red flag combo, strategic intelligence plus deception equals somebody playing it covert.

King of Swords

authority through words, the communicator, intelligence, clear and precise speech

- The King of Swords is the communicator who uses words with authority, clarity, and precision. Could be a Libra, Gemini, or Aquarius, an air sign, somebody whose intelligence is the weapon and the gift both.
- The shadow read is intelligence weaponized for drama. This one loves it when people are in disarray, stirring the pot, pinning folks against each other, but at his best he says nah, I'm at peace, closing out a cycle that no longer changes.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card he marks the moment something gets said with power. Next to the Six of Wands the message hits and somebody succeeds, next to the Ace of Pentacles that clear word becomes a real opportunity, something materialized and acted on.

WANDS

Ace of Wands

activation, raw impulse, the spark to act, starting energy

- The Ace of Wands is that raw activation that comes over you, the desire to act on something you can't even explain. You just got to move on it.
- Look, this is the starting impulse before the structure exists, so the truth is you have to go forward, you cannot think your way out of it. The energy started gathering force.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier this card tells you the whole reading is about somebody at the beginning of a cycle, ready to make their move. Next to the Nine of Swords it's somebody scared to shoot their shot, next to the Knight of Cups it's the bold romantic advance finally going for it.

Two of Wands

planning, the threshold, ready to move forward, the barrier

- The Two of Wands is somebody at the threshold who knows they're ready to move forward, even if they don't know exactly where they're going. They see it in front of them and they can't deny it.
- The shadow here is the plans and the manipulation, the smile-in-your-face-with-a-knife-behind-your-back energy. People are noticing the jealousy and envy because that contradiction in their character shows.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card this is the decision made but not acted on, the barrier turning into a starting point. Next to the Nine of Wands it's somebody planning to test your perimeter, next to the King of Cups it's a person with clarity who knows they want to move forward.

Three of Wands

watching for it, forward anticipation, moving forward, the wait

- The Three of Wands is somebody who wants to move forward and they're watching for it to come in. They don't just want to hang around for years, they're looking down the road.
- The deeper read is this should not be repressed, the truth is if you don't hold it in, it changes everything. Somebody just has to stop being scared to open up and take the action.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier this card adds physical desire and forward pull to whatever it is next to. Paired with the Ace of Cups or the High Priestess it's fire and water together, and the tea is the relationship is sexual, ain't it, they want to shoot their shot.

Four of Wands

celebration, empowerment, arriving at a stable place, joining energy

- The Four of Wands is celebration and homecoming, somebody making it to a higher place after the work. Somebody wants to join their energy with yours and build a strong foundation.

- The other layer is mastery and discernment, you've mastered something so they can't sell you a story. People are noticing they can't come at you sideways because you're a sharp judge of character.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card this hits as the reward, the outcome you arrive at when you don't repress your truth. Next to the Ace of Pentacles it's arriving somewhere real and celebratory, next to the Knight of Pentacles it's somebody trying to slow your roots from getting there.

Five of Wands

competition, conflict, one-sided rivalry, the choice to compete

- The Five of Wands is competition and conflict, and baby you are the competition. Somebody's mad, they want to fight, they put themselves in your arena.
- The truth is this is one-sided competition, people who put themselves against you, that's their first problem. They dislike how you make it look effortless and they push your boundaries.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier this card means competitive friction, multiple players grinding in the same space. Next to the Eight of Pentacles it's building your craft as others strive, and when the Ace came before it, it reads as a choice, definitely a choice.

Six of Wands

victory, recognition, successfully overcome, public win

- The Six of Wands is victory and recognition, you have successfully overcome and it looks good on you. That confidence, that blunt communication style, that's the win showing.
- The deeper karma here is you matured emotionally and you don't hand out chances anymore. They show you who they are once, twice, and that's enough, you're not giving them six, seven, eight more.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card this is the payoff at the end of a Wands run, Ace to Three to Six mapping the whole trajectory. But watch the shadow, next to the Seven of Swords or the Devil it flips into somebody who views you as having power and tries to sponge it off you.

Seven of Wands

defending your ground, holding position, fighting challengers, protect before depleted

- The Seven of Wands is holding your ground against multiple challengers from the high position. It's about protecting something before it gets depleted or damaged.
- Listen, the shadow is somebody who wants everybody coming after you because they couldn't do it alone. They'll pin everyone against you and sit back relishing the conflict they created.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier this card stacks defensive power onto whatever it touches. Next to the Nine of Wands it's the battle-worn warrior still standing, but next to the Seven of Cups under the Devil it's the adversary fighting shadows they made up themselves.

Eight of Wands

rapid movement, focused energy, coming right at a target, swift action

- The Eight of Wands is when the energy is coming right at a target, somebody focused and moving fast on something they decided to pursue. If a person can't aim like that, they're not living their truth.
- The other read is somebody all up in their head, having a hard time expressing the emotions, and the messages are speeding in. Sometimes it's people in secret on fake pages who are sad and secretly want to talk to you.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card this is speed and focus on a court card's action, it tells you what somebody is doing right now. Next to the Queen of Swords she's acting smart and moving quick, next to the Page of Wands and the Devil it's somebody taking their last shots.

Nine of Wands

guard up, still standing, protecting the doorway, weary defender

- The Nine of Wands is somebody protecting their doorway, guarding the entryway with their guard all the way up. Their energy is felt, you know they're going to make a move or they done it already.
- The deeper layer is the battle-worn warrior who is still standing after the fight. They've been tested once, twice, three times and they're still holding the hill.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier this card means somebody holding the line against repeated challenge. Next to the Two of Wands it's standing your ground as they test the perimeter, next to the Seven of Wands it stacks into pure defensive and offensive power, where it's not even going to be a fight.

Ten of Wands

burden, carrying too much, toxic choice, destructive weight

- The Ten of Wands is overburdening, getting crushed under the weight of something you picked up yourself. And the tea is, that's not going to work.
- The shadow here feels like an unhealthy pull, somebody really attracted to someone else and it's destructive. It feels like a choice here, somebody can choose this toxicity if they want it, but this reading is to help you see it.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card this is the outcome of the wrong choice, what carrying it looks like indefinitely. Next to the Knight of Wands the energy gets weird and something ain't right here, next to the Page of Wands somebody's being over-analytical on a thing that's closed out.

preparing for something new, creative passionate ideas, reaching the summit, immature energy

- The Page of Wands is someone preparing for something new, like they've gotten to the top of the mountain. It's all about creative, passionate ideas about to take off.
- The other side of this card can read immature, like somebody who love-bombed or strung you along. But you've healed that, you surrendered something, cried the tears, and now you say it straight instead of swallowing it.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier this card sets up a beginning or a new phase. Next to the World and Four of Swords it's somebody at peace, preparing for the next cycle, next to the Moon and Devil it flips to somebody trying to track and trace your moves you can't see.

Knight of Wands

in and out player, flighty, stab you in the back, lusty obsessive energy

- The Knight of Wands is in-and-out player energy, flighty, the type that gets somebody to fall in love and then dips. They want the attachment, then they hurt you and run.
- The shadow runs lusty and low-vibrational, Devil-adjacent, obsessive primal energy using rotten pitter-patter magic. The truth is something ain't right, this person is an energetic sponge drawing off you.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card this often means action that can't actually hit, a no. Next to the Two of Swords it's somebody who wants to hate on your move but they can't take action against this, they're not invited, they don't have access.

Queen of Wands

confident, radiant, they love you, fiery independent power

- The Queen of Wands is confident and radiant, and the tea is they love you. Not only are you fine, you're stable, and people cannot manipulate you, which intimidates them.
- The deeper read is people secretly want to rush the process with you, rush getting close, and you don't let them. The shadow flips to somebody begging spirit to change an outcome, willing to lie and hide the truth so they don't have to face it.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier this card confirms genuine love and magnetism in the reading. Next to the Queen of Pentacles or Ace of Cups it doubles down, somebody loves you so much it is sickening how much, next to the Five of Pentacles it's people trying to manifest you and they can't.

King of Wands

fire sign, taking the lead, ownership, choosing each other

- The King of Wands is a fire sign taking the lead, setting the record straight, not afraid to stand up. You're taking ownership of your own life with your own thinking and communication.
- The deeper layer is you take people at face value, looking at their actions not their words, so there's no tricking you like a trickster spirit. It can also read as the scary depth, like going deeper in a pool when the floor drops away.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card this is leadership and you going after what you want. Next to the Six of Wands you've matured emotionally and overcome, next to the Empress they want the wand but you hold it, next to the Two of Cups you're falling for facts, not fantasy, so don't get tricked.

PENTACLES

Ace of Pentacles

new opportunity, material seed, manifestation, something real

- Look, the Ace of Pentacles is a seed of something real getting planted, a fresh material or practical beginning, an offer, an opportunity that can actually be built into something you can touch.
- The tea is this seed does nothing in your hand. We are creators, and if you don't act on it, it never manifests, so taking the action is what makes it real.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier it tells you the opportunity is going to change everything, especially arriving next to the Tower, where the shakeup or the truth you speak clears the false thing out so the new thing can come in.

Two of Pentacles

balance, juggling, keep building, growth

- The Two of Pentacles is active juggling, keeping more than one thing in motion and finding the balance between them, robbing Peter to pay Paul until it steadies.
- Listen, when this is a partnership the message is just keep building, keep healing, keep going forward, and don't let the worry stop you from growing it.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card it confirms something's going to grow, and next to the King of Pentacles, that earth-sign master of resources, it reads as a material partnership that gets built and lasts.

Three of Pentacles

collaboration, teamwork, building together, triangulation

- The Three of Pentacles is accomplished teamwork, something real that people built together, energy poured into a job, a business, a kingdom.
- But the shadow here is triangulation. People pinning each other against each other, trying to destroy what somebody built, leaving you out in the cold from something you helped make.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier it flags the collaboration under attack, and beside the Seven of Wands it reads as everybody coming after you at once because they couldn't take you down alone, so they recruit a crowd and sit back to watch.

Four of Pentacles

holding on, security, stability, control

- The Four of Pentacles is holding tight, security, guarding your energy, keeping what you built on lockdown so nobody can pry it loose.
- The shadow is holding on to a fantasy and future-faking. People realize too late they can't sell you a version of themselves, they actually have to present the real thing or you're not buying.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card it marks the stable foundation waiting for you, and next to Strength it reads as the reward you reach once you stop leaking energy through fear and finally let the hidden thing be seen.

Five of Pentacles

lack, loss, detachment, leaving

- The Five of Pentacles is somebody trying to throw lack your way, trying to make you feel like you're missing something or left out in the cold.
- But the truth is you lack nothing. You matured past caring what people think, and people are noticing you're okay staying in that lack energy with patience and delayed gratification, not chasing a gosh dang thing.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier it exposes who comes in with ill intent, and next to the Empress it reads as they got to leave the moment she walks in, because that abundant energy makes the lack-thrower's whole act fall apart.

Six of Pentacles

giving and receiving, fair exchange, reciprocity, getting what you deserve

- The Six of Pentacles is fair exchange, giving and receiving in balance, getting back what's proportional to what you put in.
- The deeper read is reciprocity tied to honesty. If you can't be honest about what you want, then how can you get it, because what's yours only comes when you speak it.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card it promises you receive what you're meant to receive, and next to the Nine of Wands it reads as the matchup that isn't even a fight, somebody arriving with everything and it just being over, fair and settled.

Seven of Pentacles

investment, patience, reaping what you sow, karma

- The Seven of Pentacles is investment over time, as you reap you will sow, the work you put into yourself and your projects coming back around with Saturn karma attached.

- People are noticing you're patient and you ain't afraid of hard work, and the deeper truth is you're always one step ahead, not somebody who goes out and gets played.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier it tells you somebody's been working a long time, and beside the Queen of Swords it reads as cold, calculated intelligence that built its predatory game through sustained effort, so you clock that it's been a long con.

Eight of Pentacles

mastery, skill, dedication, putting in the work

- The Eight of Pentacles is dedicated mastery, working on a craft, putting in the work and practicing until you're genuinely skilled at it.
- The deeper read is what you mastered. You learned to analyze people's communication and read their true character over time, and toxic people hate that you're that skilled and still won't chase them.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card it shows someone investing at a craft level, and next to the Five of Wands it reads as sharpening your skill inside a competitive arena where others are striving too, so you build as they scrap.

Nine of Pentacles

abundance, independence, self-sufficiency, earned freedom

- The Nine of Pentacles is abundance and independence, harvesting what you built by yourself, your freedom that you worked your ass off for as people think it came easy.
- The deeper truth is you got God in your corner, and that beats out anything, plus you're good at closing out cycles, emotionally and intellectually aware, the kind of skill people start looking you up over.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier it can flip to expose envy, and next to the Tower it reads as somebody who just wants the fruits of what you grew, a carnal craving for your harvest that they didn't earn and can't sustain.

Ten of Pentacles

legacy, generational wealth, lasting success, family

- The Ten of Pentacles is generational wealth and legacy, lasting success, the kind of abundance that builds a family and breaks generational curses.
- The shadow is what it draws. People who can't break free want your money, your mentality, your perception, your relationships. They want what you have because they couldn't build it themselves.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card it's the abundance outcome arriving, and next to the World it reads as the cycle closing on completed success, as anybody still in pain is just watching someone else's full harvest materialize.

new opportunity, planting seeds, physical evidence, incoming news

- The Page of Pentacles is the student of material reality, learning to plant and grow, an opportunity, an offer, incoming good news, something physical and real on the way.
- The deeper read is you don't have to defend yourself, your character speaks volumes, but watch the shadow where somebody tries to recreate you or plant a seed in your head with dirt magic to break your mind.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier it points to evidence or a gift being handed over, and next to the Queen of Cups it reads as something of material value offered to a water sign, a gift exchange or fresh seeds planted with somebody emotionally deep.

Knight of Pentacles

endurance, determination, long-term, steady commitment

- The Knight of Pentacles is endurance and determination, somebody who wants something long-term or wants to offer something long-term, no matter how long it takes.
- The deeper move is don't stay sad about it, do something, and the truth is the competition is an illusion. You don't have to run in it, because they're really only competing with themselves.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card it can flag somebody slowing you down, and next to the Five of Wands it reads as unnecessary competition you don't have to enter, friction that's fake, so you keep your steady pace and let them tire themselves out.

Queen of Pentacles

manifestation, earth sign, self-nurture, going deeper

- The Queen of Pentacles is the actual manifestation, the moment it gets real, that grounded earth-sign energy that makes a thing solid and tangible.

- The deeper read is she's choosing herself and going deeper, not staying in the same spot, willing to drop into the next emotional layer even when it's the only way through.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier it marks where the thing becomes real, and next to the Eight of Pentacles it reads as mastery that hardened into manifestation, the skill you practiced for years finally showing up as something built and standing.

King of Pentacles

earth sign, resources, mastery of the material, building wealth

- The King of Pentacles is the master of material reality, an earth sign with the resources, somebody who has built, who is stable, who knows how to grow things.
- The deeper read is this King is aligned and knows exactly how he feels, he knows that Devil ain't no good even when it isn't written across anybody's forehead, so he reads the snake before it coils.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card it confirms growth is coming through somebody solid, and next to the Two of Pentacles it reads as a material partnership that will grow and last, resources in steady hands finding their balance.

MAJOR ARCANA

new beginning, fresh start, leap of faith, reset, divine timing

- Look, the Fool is a brand new story opening up, a leap of faith and a clean reset, and when he arrives at the bottom of a spread he is the whole foundation the reading is standing on.
- The tea is somebody is fighting this new energy, fighting how they truly feel or what they really want, but it is going to manifest whether they like it or not because divine timing is moving.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier the Fool tells you you are creating newness out of stagnancy, so when he is next to the Hanged Man or the Tower the pause and the collapse become the seam where the fresh chapter starts.

The Magician

manifestation, willpower, resourcefulness, manipulation, intention

- The Magician is raw manifesting power, self-assured and magnetic, the one who is organized and quick-witted and brings what they want into being on purpose.
- Listen, that same power has a shadow, because a Magician can be a sweet Swift talker who won't stop, manipulate you little by little until you wake up wondering how you got here, so know why you open the door before you open it.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card the Magician means it was intentional, not accidental, so when it is under the Devil somebody is aiming their manifesting straight at a predatory end, and when it is with the Empress something is beginning at the most foundational level.

The High Priestess

intuition, psychic knowing, the unseen, inner truth, confirmation

- The High Priestess is psychic abilities through the roof, the witch or warlock energy that walks with God and just knows, no question asked, only affirmation of what you sense.
- When she shows up twice she is the deck underlining the message, so if you are catching a red flag or something weird, that is the confirmation you needed, trust what is wrong even when you cannot pin it down.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier the Priestess is somebody's worst nightmare, so next to the Devil it means they thought they could spell you and they can't, and next to a Knight of Cups it confirms the wanting is real and passionate and no mistaking it.

The Empress

abundance, attraction, not chasing, someone's partner wants you, don't stop

- The Empress doesn't chase, she attracts everything to her, making the moves she wants, succeeding, knowing what she allows and what she don't, holding the wheel as others scramble.
- Here is the tea, someone's partner wants you and they don't stop, they keep coming and coming and racking up Karma, so you keep cord cutting, keep cleansing, keep declining the offer and don't entertain it.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card the Empress is the one who holds it as others want it, so next to Wheel of Fortune you are pulling good luck toward you and they are beside themselves, and next to the Devil you recognize the same energy in a different meat suit.

The Emperor

authority, structure, responsibility, Aries energy, foundations

- The Emperor is Aries fire, serious authoritative ambitious energy, structured and traditional and down to earth, the divine masculine that builds strong foundations and carries real responsibility.
- Watch this, when somebody tries to put a spell on this Emperor it backfires right in their face, because the moment they cross the line Lilith comes out and shows them they are not winning this, unapologetic, set on fire.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier the Emperor means they want to bind you, a soul tie and a tying down, so next to Nine of Swords somebody is scared and overthinking how to trap you, and next to Four of Swords it reads like responsibility reaching its culmination point.

tradition, mastery, skill, belief system, don't chase

- The Hierophant is tradition and skill, somebody insanely good at what they do, working toward something and going to make it, wise as anything and aligned in their power.
- The shadow read is a belief system that boxes you in, like a title or a social role somebody thinks holds them back, so when something tries to hold you from speaking, don't let them and don't do it to yourself.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card the Hierophant says don't chase, attract, so next to Judgement it means people try to do one over on you and it only creates opportunity, and next to the Page of Swords a title becomes the barrier somebody invents.

union, choice, partnership, alignment, the shadow of wanting

- The Lovers is sacred choice and alignment, taking the oath, choosing somebody, two souls in agreement, and it doesn't have to be marriage on paper to be a real binding.
- But the Lovers has a dark side, obsession disguised as love, where the wanting turns toxic and somebody wanted you or wanted what you had and that wanting got destructive.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier the Lovers shows a network or a soul tribe, so next to Three of Cups it is a whole community that loves what you do, but next to the Devil it flips into a corrupted mirror, the offer of connection used as a trap.

willpower, momentum, leading by example, bravery, the plan finds you

- The Chariot can be you going out and getting it, but the truth is it is coming toward you, the plan finds you because you don't chase, you move quick and you don't have time to entertain nonsense.
- This is bravery and resilience that shocks people, because they expect the same energy back that they gave you and they don't get it, you lead by example instead, with strength and power.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card the Chariot brings masculine drive and a fertile mind, so next to Strength it is leading with power not retaliation, and next to the High Priestess it reads as people trying to go toe to toe with you spiritually.

Strength

courage, overcoming, inner power, walking away, breaking out

- Strength is courage and overcoming, walking away and moving away, breaking out of an old perspective or an old way of thinking that no longer holds you.
- Here is the deeper layer, sometimes you keep falling in and out of your own strength because somebody is trying to attach their energy to you, and there may be a fear a person feels they have to keep hidden.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier Strength shows the way out is through inner courage, not external force, so next to Eight of Swords the exit was there all along, and next to the Devil they wish you would entertain it but you don't got to.

The Hermit

wisdom, solitude, Virgo energy, psychic sight, seeking the truth

- The Hermit is a wise Elder, Virgo energy, insanely psychic, the witch in you strong enough to see people acting funny so you detach before they can stab you in the back.
- Even if you are not old you hold the energy of a wise Elder, glowing in the dark, seeking the evidence and the truth, calculated and careful and thorough, never impulsive.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card the Hermit means you see things through the dark, so next to the Moon your intuition gets scary accurate and ominous, and next to the Star it reads as a particular set of skills nobody can hide from.

Wheel of Fortune

fate, the turn, luck, karmic shift, what goes around

- The Wheel of Fortune is good luck and fortune turning toward you, fate pivoting in your favor as the person watching is beside themselves trying to understand why it keeps working out for you.
- The tea is anybody can sabotage their own blessing, anybody can turn something positive into negative, so people who screw you over watch their new beginnings get taken away, their opportunities gone.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier the Wheel is the turn that changes everything, neutral but heavy, so next to the Devil or Two of Swords it warns that if somebody crosses your boundary their whole life is going to shift, not in their favor.

Justice

accountability, karma, legal matters, truth, proportional consequence

- Justice is karmic accountability and proportional consequence, and sometimes it is literal, somebody will be in court, somebody will be in jail, whatever they are doing is coming back around.
- This card is truth that demands action, the clarity that forces a decision, and it can also be you serving justice by withdrawing your energy, loving yourself more and getting sterner about who gets access.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card Justice confirms the consequence is institutional and real, so next to the Ace of Swords the truth has arrived and cannot be ignored, and next to the Lovers it looks like somebody finally getting the partnership they are supposed to get, in the spotlight.

The Hanged Man

surrender, pause, new perspective, suspension, seeing differently

- The Hanged Man is surrender and a shift in perspective, standing in one spot, hanging upside down so you finally see the thing differently and come out of the silence with a realization.
- Somebody is trying to delay you or pause you, but the deeper read is a confirmation that makes you realize something, so the stillness is creating stability before the move.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier the Hanged Man says let go of resistance and accept what is, so next to the Fool you turn the standstill into newness, and next to the World it is the surrendering that follows a cycle completing.

transformation, ending, transition, regeneration, rebirth

- Death is an ending and a transition, not the literal kind, the rot that clears the ground, and the truth is you never really die, you transform and you come back.
- People are shocked at your regeneration rate because of the light you hold and the way you speak, and there is a Lilith energy here too, death and sexuality and joy braided together so folks secretly want a bite.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card Death means you come back ten times stronger, so next to the Sun it is a regenerating forest blooming after the burn, and next to Ten of Cups people are floored at your ability to manifest after everything they believed got revealed as a lie.

alchemy, balance, staying on your path, Sagittarius energy, patience

- Temperance is the card of alchemy, Sagittarius energy, knowing how to temper yourself and turn whatever somebody sends at you into opportunity as they sit there scratching their head wondering why it isn't working.
- This is staying on your path and not letting the demons trick you, sway you or tempt you, because it don't matter what they got to say, you are the master of alchemy and you don't stop.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier Temperance means you keep going as they spin out, so next to the Empress it explains why you feel dizzy from someone's relentless energy and stay balanced, and next to the Page of Swords it brings a new perspective, atonement of errors, never a lost cause.

taboo, toxicity, bondage, temptation, the forbidden

- The Devil is something too damn toxic, forbidden, taboo, the thing a person is not supposed to do, the energy that would poison something or bind you if you let it close.

- Listen, the dark energies get a bad rep but you don't want to cross them, because you are ancient and you get Divine messages, so somebody playing with fire with you is going to get burned, they need to chill with that.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card the Devil reads as the corrupted offer, so next to the Lovers it is connection used as a bait and trap, and next to the High Priestess it becomes their own worst nightmare because you roll with the big guy upstairs.

sudden change, disruption, collapse, manifestation, the shift

- The Tower is sudden change that rearranges everything, an action or a word that manifests something real, that shifts the direction and the outcome and surprises you when it hits.
- The tea is this is going to be a show, and the people who set it off can't stop a thing, the only move they got left is to talk, and talk ain't nothing against what is coming down.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier the Tower means the opportunity that breaks what was false, so next to the Ace of Pentacles a new seed changes everything once you speak it, and next to Nine of Pentacles it reads as carnal wanting that could blow your life up if you let it in.

healing, hope, unique gifts, out of this world, clarity

- The Star is a healing vibe, the motherly energy that eases racing minds and takes worries away just by being near, the one people secretly tell themselves calms their troubles.
- This is Aquarius energy, you do something different and out of this world, you see exactly what is real as they stay blind, and that particular set of skills means there is no mistaking any of it.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card the Star confirms psychic skill they can't touch, so next to the High Priestess it means they thought they could love-spell a witch and got people scared, and next to the Hierophant it is tradition plus skill that is a narcissist's worst nightmare.

the subconscious, hidden things, psychic sight, illusion, the unseen

- The Moon is seeing through the dark, perceiving the lies under the truths and the truth under the lies, reading people's words and body language because you catch the Unseen.
- The deeper layer is the subconscious surfacing, the clarity that comes from going your own way, and watch it, somebody could be a distraction working something hidden, trying not to be detected.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier the Moon brings what is hidden into focus, so next to the Hermit your intuition turns scary accurate and ominous, and next to Four of Swords it reads as a person doing something in the shadows who does not want to be caught.

spotlight, truth to light, all eyes on you, vitality, success

- The Sun is all eyes on you, the spotlight, the one people secretly think holds the keys and always gets what they want, bringing the heat and the fire chemistry wherever you go.
- When the Sun comes out twice the deck is repeating itself so you hear it, somebody has to bring this to the light, stop repressing it and make it to that higher place where the truth gets spoken.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card the Sun means God is in your corner and it beats everything, so next to Nine of Pentacles it says do not entertain the offer because no dark deity outranks that, and next to the Devil it is light burning their worst nightmare into view.

reckoning, awakening, calling it, putting somebody in their place, rebirth

- Judgement is a reckoning, the trumpet from heaven, somebody pissed and somebody getting called out, the moment a controlling manipulative energy gets put exactly where it belongs.
- This card is also you calling judgement by putting yourself first, closing out a past cycle without unnecessary competition or triangulation, because you got a strong mind and better things to do than worry who is competing with you.

Clarifier / Combo: As a clarifier Judgement says you are persistent and you close out cycles, so next to Nine of Pentacles it confirms near misses where people look you up and view you differently, and next to the Tower it is the reckoning that hits when the controlling one gets exposed.

The World

completion, closing the cycle, mastery, done, full circle

- The World is the closing of the cycle, complete, finished, done, nothing can be done about this, the final card that reads as absolute and not just one possible outcome.
- The World is almost there, a cycle ending and not re-begun, the near-complete close rather than the Fool's fresh start, getting into your masculine energy and that intellectual richness people underestimate until it is too late.

Clarifier / Combo: As a combo card the World means the proof that ends it for good, so next to Justice somebody viewing you online is shook and the matter is settled, and next to the Hanged Man it is completion followed by somebody surrendering to what is finally undeniable.

Quick Reference

All 78 cards, one line each

CUPS

Ace of Cups (new offering, healing, test, gift) They see you as the blessing that showed up after the worst thing happened, and they're testing whether you'll open the door before they put their whole heart on the table.

Two of Cups (options, karma, mutual connection, truth) They realize too late that you got options and the karma is already hitting because you stopped falling for fantasy and started falling for facts.

Three of Cups (reconciliation, scared, third party, mending) They want to reconcile but a third party energy has been all up in your business, and they're scared you'll be too defensive to even hear them out.

Four of Cups (rejection, stuck, unbothered, soul tribe) You ain't afraid of rejection and they can't rattle you, so the frustration of not being able to move you is the thing keeping them up at night.

Five of Cups (sadness, trapped, light-stealing, grief) They want to trap you in sadness and steal your light because they never dealt with their own grief, and your healing makes their stagnation look worse.

Six of Cups (nostalgia, inner child, past connections, deep bonds) The more people tried to hate on your connection the more you turned it into love, and they're tapped into something deep and familiar that keeps calling them back.

Seven of Cups (illusion, fantasy, clarity, clouded vision) Their vision is completely clouded by the fantasy they created about you, and now they're learning the path of forgiving themselves for being a big old dummy about the whole situation.

Eight of Cups (walking away, intuition, cut off, moving on) You walked away because you ain't sitting in a pity party, and they didn't shoot their shot when they had the chance so now that window is closed.

Nine of Cups (wish fulfillment, fighting feelings, manifestation, contentment) People are shocked at your ability to manifest and this person keeps running from the fact that you are the wish fulfilled, not the obstacle.

Ten of Cups (complete connection, soul bond, manifestation, spirit confirmation) Spirit is confirming this as a complete soul connection and they can feel it in their bones, but the magnitude of something this real is what's making them hesitate.

Page of Cups (apology, reaching out, intuition, emotional breakthrough) Your intuition about them was never wrong and now they realize you were loyal the whole time while their anxiety had them accusing you of things that weren't even real.

Knight of Cups (protection, too late, divine protection, options) They realize too late that spirit really does love you and will bring in new love just to prove it, and the fake love they were showing got exposed the moment real ones stepped up.

Queen of Cups (grace, gift, acceptance, honesty) Something about you is a gift and they're mad about it because they know you could handle the truth if they just told it, and your grace is what wrecks them the most.

King of Cups (emotional mastery, old ways, manipulation exposed, fear) They're realizing you can see right through the emotional manipulation, and fear is causing them to create scenarios in their head about you that ain't even real.

WORDS

Ace of Swords (clarity, cutting through, shock, truth arriving) The truth just cut through every lie they built and they can't hide from what they know about you because that sword of truth ain't something you can outrun.

Two of Swords (indecision, standoff, wanting, protecting the door) They see something they want in you but they know they'd be crossing a line, stuck between what they feel and what they think is safe.

Three of Swords (truth about a partnership, can't stay quiet, heartbreak, hidden) There's a truth about your connection they can't stay quiet about anymore because they know it cuts, and sitting on it hoping it would go away ain't working.

Four of Swords (peace, maintaining vibration, stillness, surrender) You maintain your vibration no matter what they throw at you and they can't figure out how you stay at peace when they're out here losing their composure.

Five of Swords (envy, jealousy, attachments failing, starting over) Their stories and actions don't add up, and your energy brings all their hidden envy right to the surface where that mask just fell clean off.

Six of Swords (moving on, walking away, realized too late, exiled) They never actually had you and now they're watching you move on peacefully because you got exiled and pushed out only to become the king or queen.

Seven of Swords (stalking, sneaking, caught looking, healing vibe) Other people are already noticing them stalking your pages and your healing vibe pulls them back every single time even when they don't want it to.

Eight of Swords (trapped, mental prison, can't move, elevated perspective) They are stuck and don't know why while you look at things from a higher perspective, trapped in a self-imposed mental prison watching you rise above what they can't escape.

Nine of Swords (worried, anxiety, looping thoughts, options) They know you got options and that anxiety is looping on repeat because their jealousy runs so deep it's keeping them up at night.

Ten of Swords (cut off, betrayal, detachment, no celebration) You retracted everything and it was done, and they're not lying to nobody anymore because that communication got cut completely with no coming back.

Page of Swords (new perspective, loyalty doubted, potential, waves in happiness) They're gaining a new perspective about your loyalty that was never the problem, and they wanted to create waves in your happiness because things come to you so easily.

Knight of Swords (hiding something, not completely honest, rushing, eating them up) They're not being completely honest about something and it's eating them alive, but you're going to keep rising no matter what they hide.

Queen of Swords (cannot be manipulated, cut them off, see right through, boss) You cannot be manipulated period, and they think you're naive but you clock every single move while they watch you thrive without them.

King of Swords (too intelligent, reverse Uno, cold, trying to get in your head) The reverse Uno is that you're way too intelligent for their games, and they love that they caused chaos but can't stand that it didn't work on you.

WANDS

Ace of Wands (activation, impulse, can't even explain it, something got activated) Something got activated in them about you that they can't explain, and your energy changed the whole direction of what they thought they wanted.

Two of Wands (planning, barrier, moving forward, two people attracted) They're planning to move forward with you on their mind but people are noticing the spiritual attachments of jealousy and envy driving their so-called plans.

Three of Wands (watching from a distance, leaving, exploring, anticipating a shift) They're watching you from a distance locked in and waiting for the right moment because they're leaving an old cycle and you represent the next level.

Four of Wands (foundation, joining energies, celebration, loyalty) They want to set up a strong foundation with you but they can't come at you sideways because you're a very good judge of character.

Five of Wands (competition, conflict, one-sided rivalry, blocking out drama) You are very good at blocking out conflict and drama, and this is one-sided competition they put themselves in while you didn't even enter the ring.

Six of Wands (victory, confidence, magnetism, successfully overcome) They want your aura, your light, your magnetism because you came out victorious but even exhausted you carry more authority than they do at their best.

Seven of Wands (defending, protecting, holding your ground, fighting against challengers) You're protecting something before it's depleted and they couldn't do it alone, so they want everybody coming after you while they sit back relishing it.

Eight of Wands (focused on a target, rapid movement, sparking conversation, looking you up) Their energy is coming right at you like a target because they know if they don't act now the window shuts and that urgency has them doing things they normally wouldn't.

Nine of Wands (guard up, still standing, protecting the doorway, perseverance) You are still standing no matter what they throw at you, and they know you already see their move coming before they even step.

Ten of Wands (burden, carrying silently, destructive attraction, toxicity) They've been carrying whatever's on their mind about you silently and the attraction is almost unhealthy, but they don't want to face that truth yet.

Page of Wands (preparing, going a different direction, immature energy, holding on) They would never normally make a decision based on a relationship but your pull has them considering moves they never thought they'd make.

Knight of Wands (something ain't right, charging forward, lusty energy, can't hold back) They can't hold it in any longer and want to charge forward, but something ain't right with their lusty obsessive energy and you can see right through every bit of it.

Queen of Wands (confident, intimidating, can't manipulate, rushing the process) They cannot manipulate you in any sort of way and that is intimidating, so they're willing to lie and hide the truth but your fire sign energy burns right through the deception.

King of Wands (fire sign, taking the lead, face value, truth and evidence) You are taking people at face value now looking at actions not words, and they can see the truth and evidence but accepting it ain't simple for them.

Ace of Pentacles (new opportunity, contract, manifestation, seed planted) They're thinking about making something real with you and they're scared that speaking it into existence means they can't take it back.

Two of Pentacles (balance, juggling, building, finding equilibrium) They're trying to keep their balance around you and want to keep building, but they're terrified that one wrong move tips the whole thing over.

Three of Pentacles (triangulation, collaboration destroyed, left out, choosing yourself) They're trying to triangulate your situation but they can't accept that you chose yourself over their little scheme.

Four of Pentacles (holding on, can't let go, future faking, protecting energy) They're holding tight to a version of you that doesn't exist and they realize too late that they can't future fake you.

Five of Pentacles (lack, patience, delayed gratification, unbothered) They expected you to be stressed and depleted but you lack nothing because you've matured past the point where their little games can touch you.

Six of Pentacles (fair exchange, honesty, getting what you deserve, reciprocity) They're trying to knock you off balance but whatever is hidden got to come to light and the imbalance is keeping them up at night.

Seven of Pentacles (patience, reaping what you sow, karma, one step ahead) You're always one step ahead and the masks fall off when they're around you because you elicit something out of them they can't control.

Eight of Pentacles (mastery, skilled, boundaries, not chasing) They view you as very skilled and not chasing and they hate it because you've mastered everything they thought would be your weakness.

Nine of Pentacles (independence, abundance, God's in your corner, holding your own) You're doing just fine without them and God's in your corner, and you worked your ass off for that freedom they thought was easy.

Ten of Pentacles (legacy, generational curses broken, wanting what you have, protecting peace) They want your mentality, your perception, your resilience because you broke generational curses they can't break free from.

Page of Pentacles (planting seeds, wanting to make it real, character speaks, practical action) They're trying to get inside your head but your character speaks volumes, and they want to take practical action but don't know where to start.

Knight of Pentacles (endurance, long-term, determination, do something about it) They want to offer endurance and determination no matter how long it takes, but the question is whether they actually earned it.

Queen of Pentacles (going deeper, choosing themselves, scared it's real, manifestation) They're choosing to go deeper but they're scared about whether this is going to be real because of things that happened before.

King of Pentacles (aligned, knows what they want, resources, leader energy) They see you in a leader role not following anyone and setting up your own thing, and your King energy exposes everything without you even trying.

MAJOR ARCANA

The Fool (new beginning, divine timing, energy can't be destroyed, fighting feelings) They can't predict your next move and they sense divine timing all around you, making them question every safe choice they ever made.

The Magician (manifestation, self-assured, magnetic, organized, speaking into existence) You're self-assured in a way that ain't normal and they've watched you speak things into existence then act like it was nothing.

The High Priestess (psychic, intuition, confirmation, red flags, reading energy) You know something you shouldn't know and your intuition told you what they were doing before they even did it, so that silence you carry is louder than anything.

The Empress (magnetic, secret admirers, winning energy, unstoppable, minds racing) They're secretly thinking how can I become like them because you just make people's minds race and they can't figure out how you do it.

The Emperor (Aries, initiative, authority, spells backfiring, defamation failing) Their spells are backfiring right in their face and they're trying defamation of character but they ain't got no proof.

The Hierophant (tradition, belief systems, skilled, competition, rebelling) You're very skilled at what you do and they're rebelling against the status quo because your energy made them question their whole belief system.

The Lovers (choice, duality, oath, fear of choosing, obsession disguised as love) They're thinking about taking an oath with you but what started as genuine attraction crossed into obsession disguised as love.

The Chariot (destiny, moving forward, blocking quickly, no time for nonsense) You block people real quick and your belief that you don't have to chase anything because the plan will find you is undeniable destiny energy.

Strength (courage, overcoming, prioritizing self, inner strength, breaking out of trauma) You prioritize yourself in difficult times and they can't get their way no matter what they try because your inner courage ain't something they can match.

The Hermit (Virgo energy, wisdom, psychic knowing, solitude, detachment) You're wise as hell and you don't remain stuck for long because you allow confusion to bring clarity while they're still wondering how you found the answer.

Wheel of Fortune (turning in your favor, luck, good fortune, lessons learned) You're attracting good luck and fortune because you gave in to your soul and they gave in to sabotage, and that's the difference.

Justice (balance, truth revealed, toxic situations, ease and flow, third parties exposed) You move out of toxic situations with ease and flow, and third parties are getting exposed because justice don't miss.

The Hanged Man (perspective, surrender, seeing differently, peeping the truth) You can see the words that have not been spoken and they are done waiting caps lock done because they surrendered their old beliefs because of you.

Death (regeneration, shocked, rebirth, shedding, lotus flower) People are shocked at your regeneration rate because you grow and manifest off death and decay like a lotus flower, cutting through lies and turning rot into power.

Temperance (alchemy, Sagittarius, balance, creating opportunities, staying on path) You alchemize everything they send at you into opportunities and ain't nobody care what they got to say because you are the master of alchemy.

The Devil (lust, attachment, energy siphoning, playing with fire, ancient energy) They want that attachment and energy siphoning but you recognize the Devil when he wears a different meat suit, same energy different person.

The Tower (sudden change, manifestation, humiliation backfiring, unexpected miracles) One action is about to change everything and whatever they tried to publicly discredit you always ends in backfire, that's structural and that's a promise.

The Star (purpose, divine mission, sacred sight, specific skills, healing) Spirit sends you on specific purposes for specific missions and you are so out of this world that you can see exactly what's happening while they are blind.

The Moon (psychic sight, seeing through the dark, subconscious fears, navigating deception) You're insanely psychic because you can see through the dark, and things are moving faster than they anticipated with nothing they can do to slow it down.

The Sun (spotlight, all eyes on you, undeniable, keys, always winning) You get what you want all the time and your talent is undeniable, with the Sun coming out twice meaning maximum confirmation from spirit.

Judgement (reckoning, accountability, manipulation failing, too little too late, karma) They're realizing too late that the fantasy is over and whatever they've done many times is coming back around because the judgment ain't yours to worry about, it's theirs.

The World (completion, closing the cycle, Saturn, intellectual richness, shook) People saw you online and they are just shook because you carry intellectual richness they never expected, and that Saturn energy brings the mastery of finishing what you started.
